

Air1 is one of two Christian music channels in Honolulu, Hawaii. They provide alternative music geared toward the younger generation, something that is much needed, as the other station does not. Air1 makes a positive impact on the young people in Hawaii, and could do so much more if given the proper opportunity to expand its transmission service.

If Air1 were to be displaced by a LPFM broadcaster providing other programming, Honolulu would see only one Christian radio station monopolize the market.

I believe that it is in the best interest of the public if there was fair competition, and that they provide the much needed commercial free, Christian programming for the people of Hawaii and other states across this great nation!
